Councilmember Phil Mendelson, Chairman of the Committee on the Judiciary, announces a public hearing on Bill 16-466, Temporary Protection Order Expiration Amendment Act of 2005, Bill 16-467, Child Custody Domestic Violence Amendment Act of 2005, and PR 16-409, Sense of the Council in Favor of Enforcement of Protection Orders for Victims of Domestic Violence in the District of Columbia. This notice has been abbreviated to permit appropriate notice to be given to the public.

Domestic violence has a tremendous impact on our society and can happen to anyone of any race, age, sexual orientation, or gender. In the District of Columbia, ten women per year are killed as a result of domestic violence. Nationally, as many as four million women are assaulted by spouses or partners each year. The Committee on the Judiciary will use this hearing to look in a comprehensive manner at the issue of domestic violence in the District of Columbia. The Committee will focus on the availability, issuance and enforcement of protective orders, prosecution of abusers, and the availability of services for victims amongst other things.

The stated purpose of Bill 16-466, the Temporary Protection Order Expiration Amendment Act of 2005, is to amend the District of Columbia Official Code to provide that temporary protection orders that are set to expire on a day when the Superior Court of the District of Columbia is closed shall continue in effect until the next day the Superior Court is open for regular business.

The stated purpose of Bill 16-467, the Child Custody Domestic Violence Amendment Act of 2005, is to provide that in a custody proceeding where there is a finding that domestic violence occurred between the parents, there is a rebuttable presumption that granting sole legal and physical custody to the parent who did not commit the offense and is not the primary aggressor is in the best interest of the child or children.

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA REGISTER

The stated purpose of PR16-409, the Sense of the Council in favor of Enforcement of Protection Orders for Victims of Domestic Violence in the District of Columbia Resolution of 2005, is to declare the sense of the Council of favor of timely and exhaustive enforcement of protection orders for victims of domestic violence in the District of Columbia.
